Collective Responsibility: Participant Self-Nomination

Q1 Introduction

Ruth Kitchin Tillman (Penn State Libraries) and Sandy Rodriguez (University of Missouri—Kansas City University Libraries) invite current and recent workers on grants funding digital work in libraries, archives, and museums (LAM) positions to self-nominate as participants for the IMLS-funded Collective Responsibility: National Forum on Labor Practices for Grant-Funded Digital Positions LG-73-18-0236. The term “digital” is used broadly, as 21st century LAM work is almost necessarily digital in some way and much digital work in the field is advanced through grant funding. Only work which has no digital aspect, presence, or component is excluded.

The project will run from October 1, 2018, to March 30, 2020, with two 1.5 day meetings of up to forty participants. The first meeting, Experience, will focus on the development of a systematic understanding of the experiences of grant-funded laborers, preceded by a broad survey and resulting in a white paper. It will occur in April 2019, in Pittsburgh, PA. Practices, the second meeting, will directly follow the Digital Library Federation Forum in Tampa, FL, October 2019. This meeting provides an opportunity for funder and institutional participants to share and reflect on current practices; to collaborate with each other and workers on developing actionable outcomes, which may vary by institution and funder type; and to publish more generalized best practices.

Participants' travel and accommodation at both meetings will be funded, as will 5 meals, coffee, and snacks during the 1.5-day meetings. Grant funding will also be available for childcare accommodations at each meeting in order to facilitate participation of attendees whose attendance might otherwise be unfeasible.

Prospective participants will be asked to provide contact information, answer questions about the positions held and their interests in engaging with these forums, and given the opportunity to provide optional demographic data in order to assist the PIs in minimizing gaps in the representation of marginalized and underrepresented communities within LAM.

The form should take approximately 30 minutes or less to complete, depending upon how the participant responds to an open-ended question.

Data management and retention

Data submitted through this form will be retained within Qualtrics through April 2019 and will only be accessed by the Primary Investigators listed above. The PIs may view the data within Qualtrics and create cross-references. The following paragraphs provide further detail of how the data will be used and which fields will be exported and retained.

Data to be exported and retained: The PIs will export contact information from the first two questions to respond to applicants regarding the applicant's participant status. Contact information will only be used for correspondence related to the National Forum and, if the applicant agrees in the final question, for the distribution of a follow-up survey. Separate email lists of those involved in the Forums and those interested in the follow-up survey will be maintained by the PIs after the Qualtrics data is deleted.

Data which may be exported: The PIs may choose to export survey identifiers and responses to questions regarding the applicant's willingness to participate and interest in the forum from the Qualtrics software. Participants will be invited based primarily on these responses.

Data which will not be exported: The data from questions indicated as related to representation will not be exported from Qualtrics. Data from these questions will be used to minimize representational gaps among participants. Although these will not be exported from Qualtrics or viewed by anyone other than the Primary Investigators, it is possible that the data might become exposed through hacking of either the Qualtrics or the PI's systems. Respondents are not required to answer these questions and may choose to answer them in a way which minimizes risks to themselves in the event of a data security breach.

Agreement

By completing this form, you agree that you are over 18 years old. Please note that grant funding will not cover international travel, and thus, only applicants located within the United States will be considered.
